

Project Earth Day...

the Future of Fashion is in your hands!

how green are you?

bring your freshest green thinking

The USGBC Emerging Green Builders New York (EGBNY) invite you to engage in "Project Earth Day"—a sustainable fashion show honoring this annual celebration of the environment.

Flex your creativity! Participate in our student competition—design a runway piece made from eco-friendly fabrics.

is this you?

The competition is open to current design students in any field or those who have graduated after April 2006. EGBNY requests the submission of the following requirements for participation: a sketch using, but not limited to materials suggested on the egbny.com site, a 100 word description describing how the design concept, and a brief biography of the designer(s). Participants can work alone or in teams. Please include entire submission as one PDF file. Submissions will be accepted from March 1st through March 14th, 2007. Participants will be announced March 15th, 2007, and all completed designs are due April 16th, 2007.
